

Collective inclusion

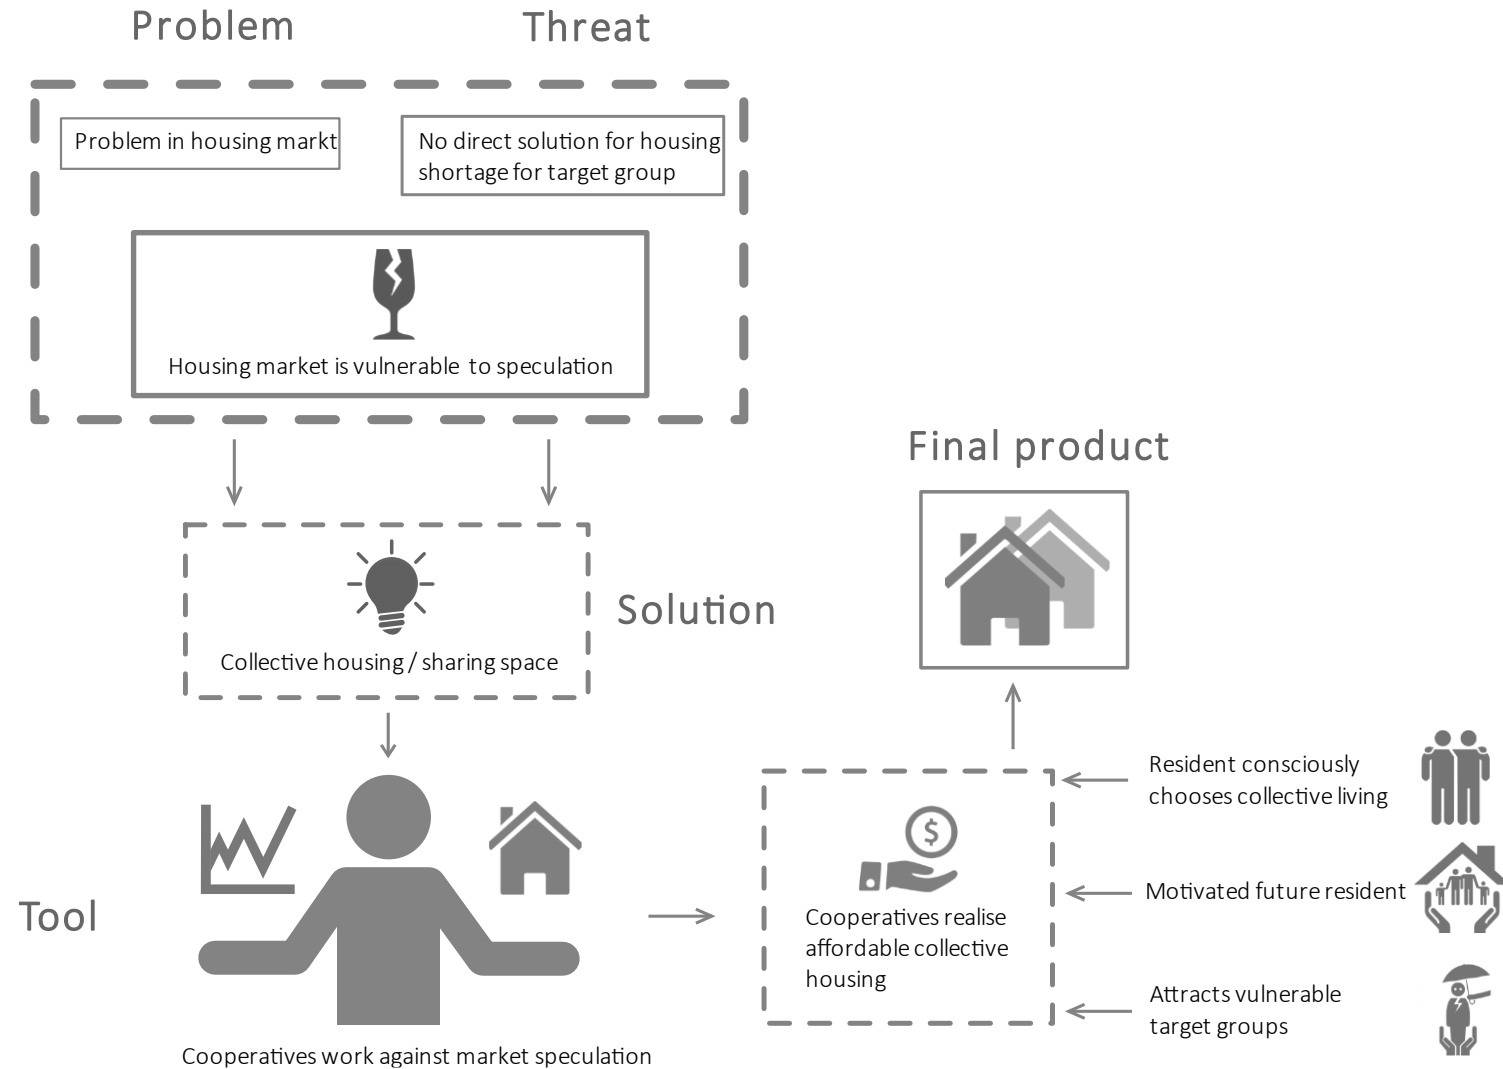

Introduction

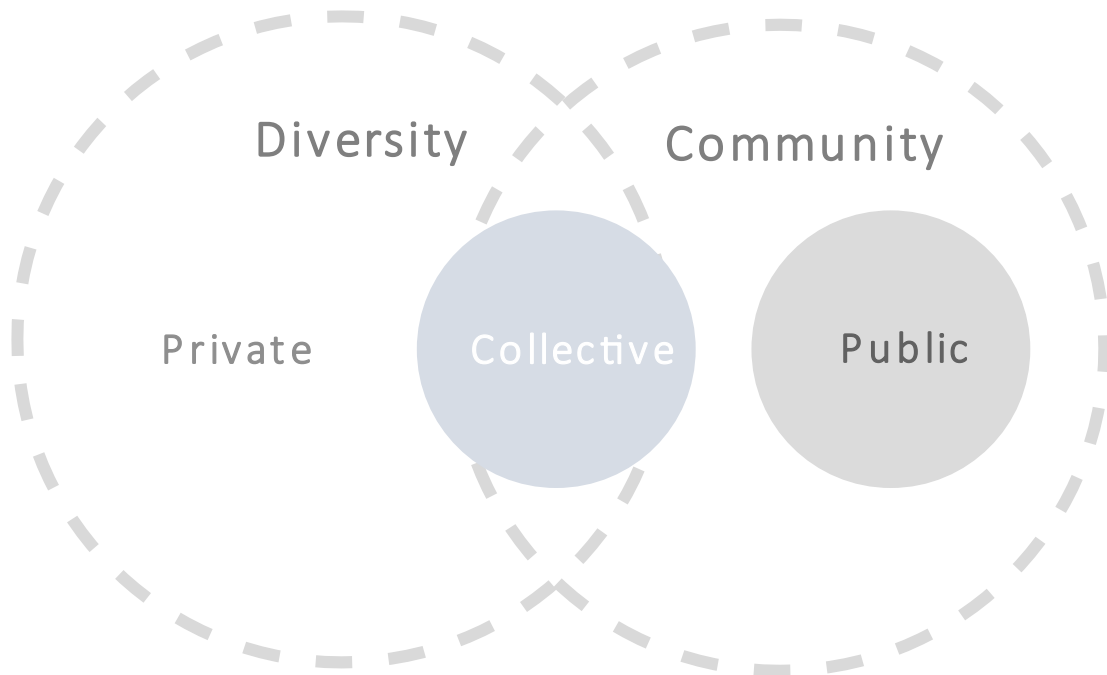

I can't find a house

Searching for solutions?

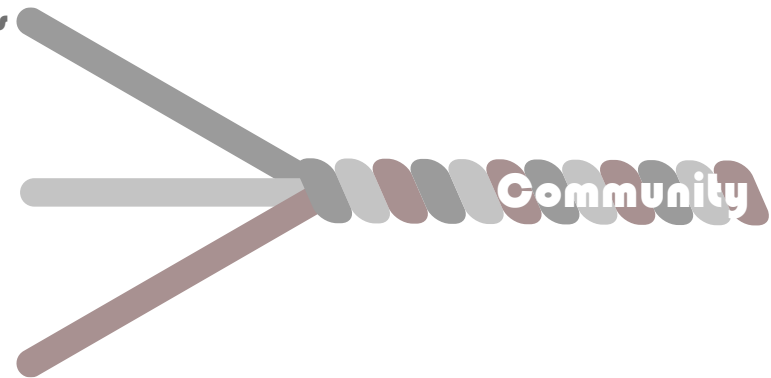

Research frame and goals

Housing requirements of target groups

Shared living space and facilities

Collective space in the building

Research question

“ How can the programming of collective and shared spaces in co-housing enhance interaction and social cohesion among the residents?”

Dweller profiles

Solo

Couple

New form of living, co-living

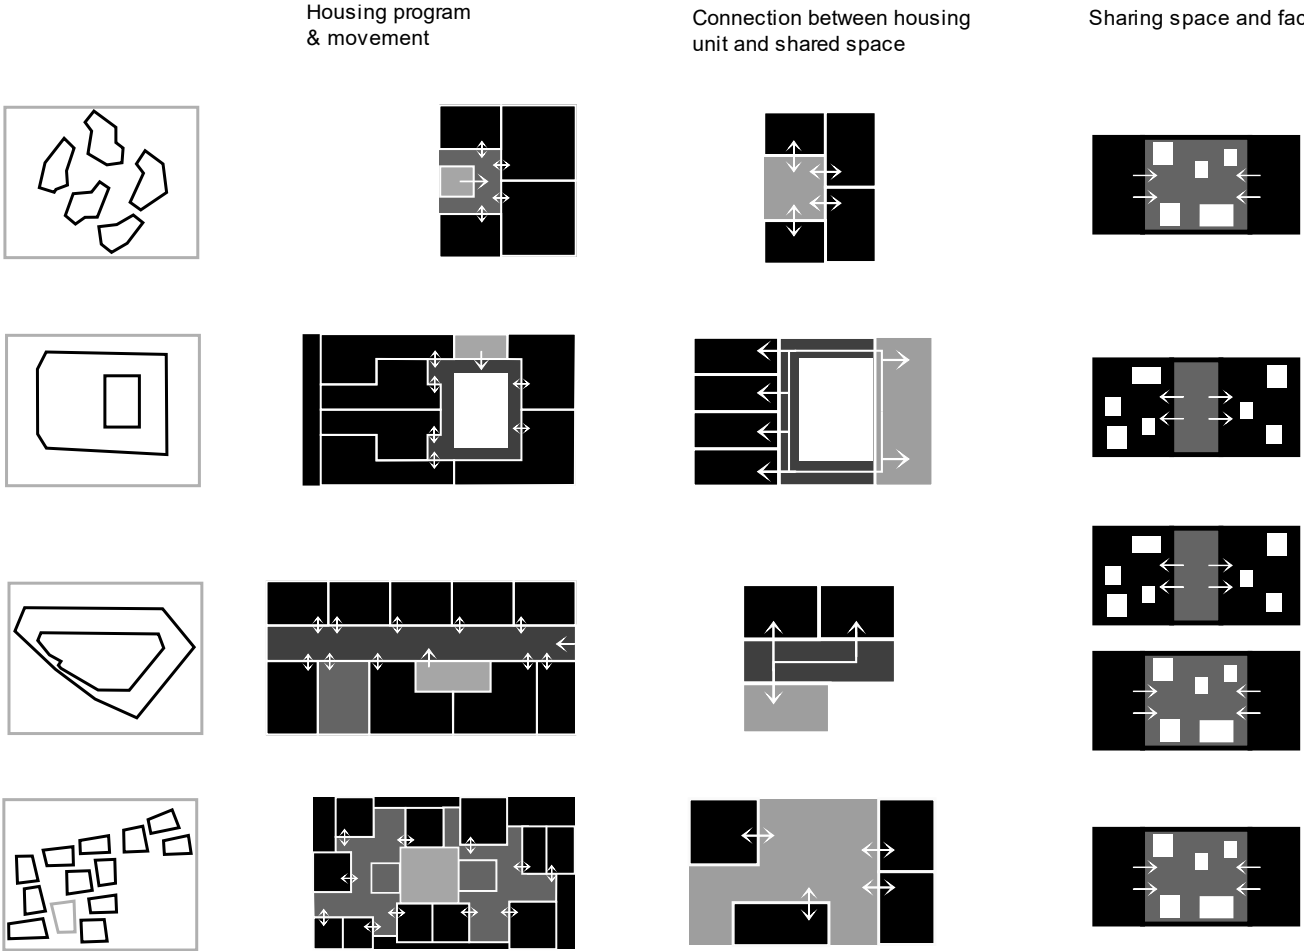

Space typology

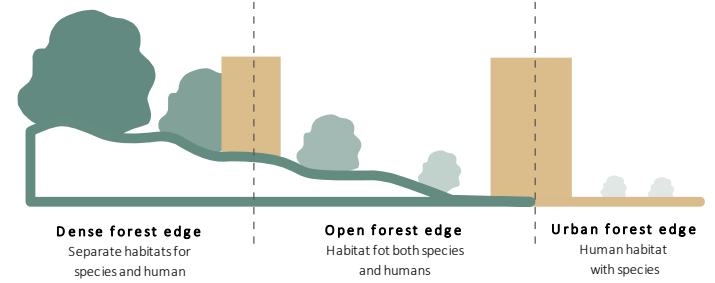

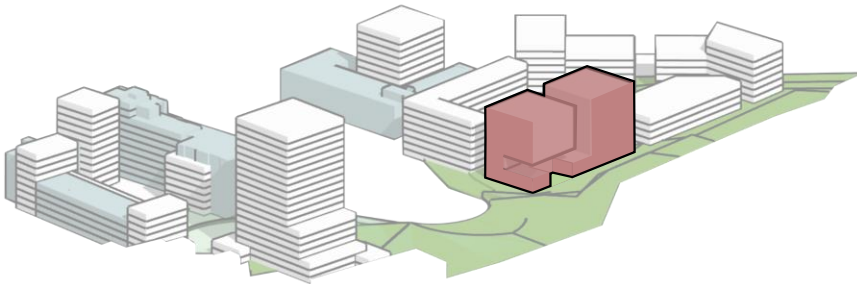

Private			Private space inside housing unit
Semi- private			Shared space in a (cluster) house
Semi- public			Collective space outside (cluster) houses
Public			Public space in the building

Take aways from research (case studies) to design

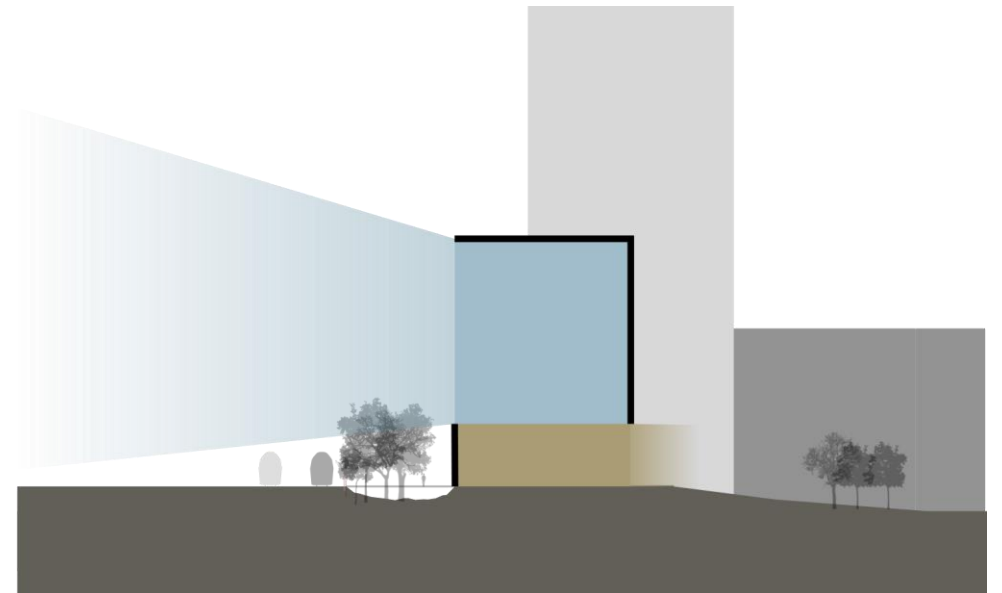

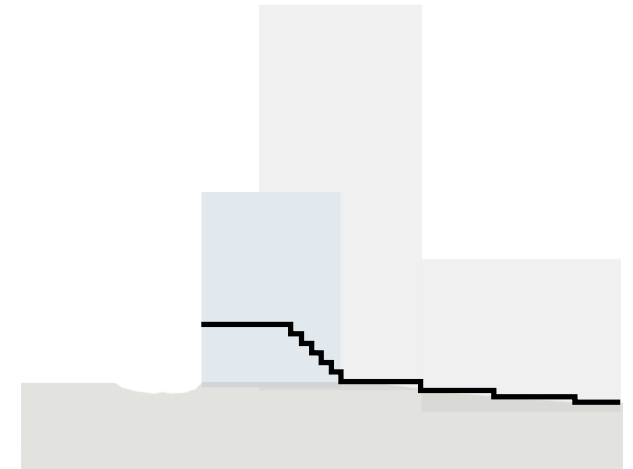

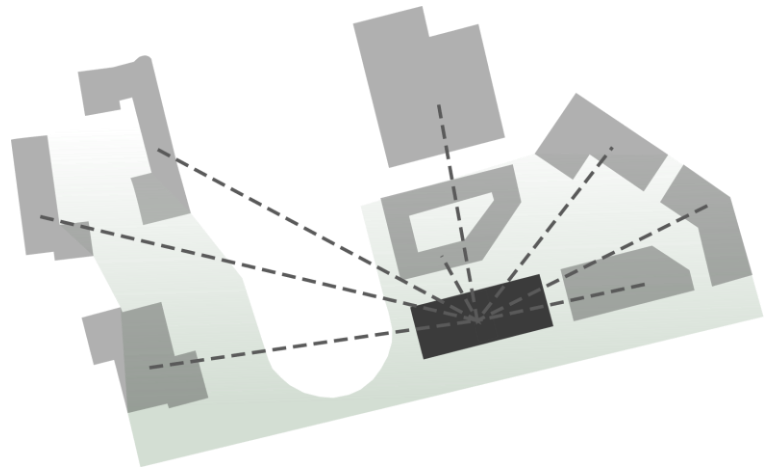

- Housing unit
- Staircase
- Collective space
- Shared space

Position urban masterplan

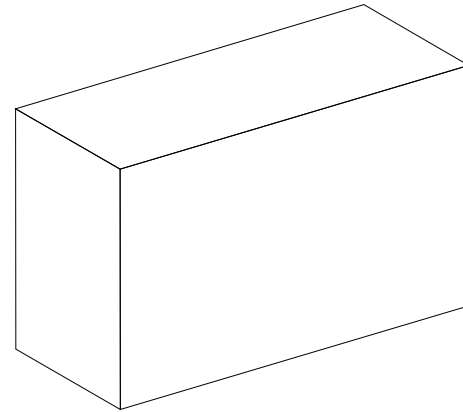

Role with masterplan

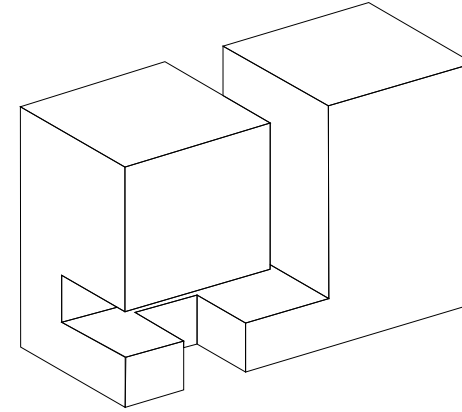

Design principles and Building concept

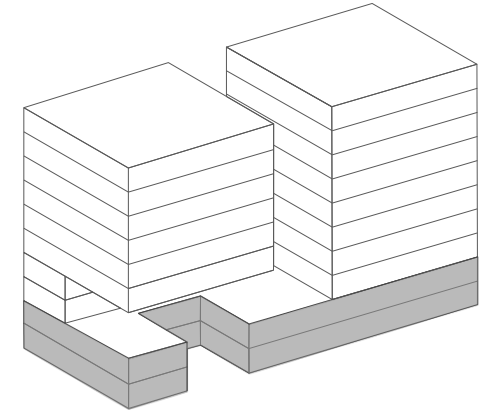

Private & Collective living

Maximum building volume

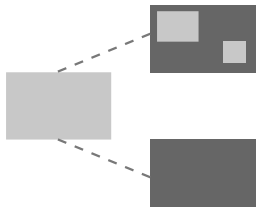

Openings according to public/collective space

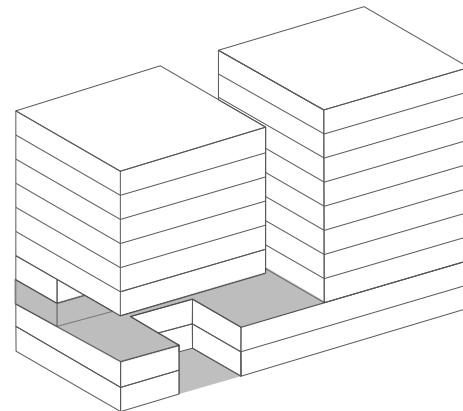

Collective plinth

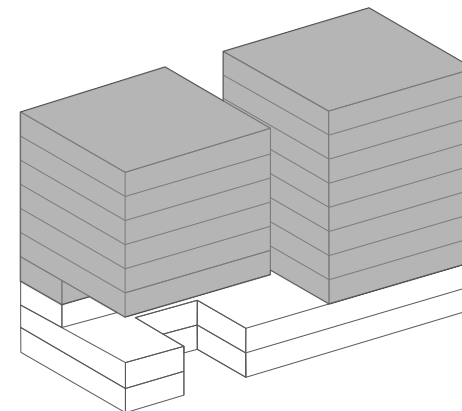

Public & commercial functions

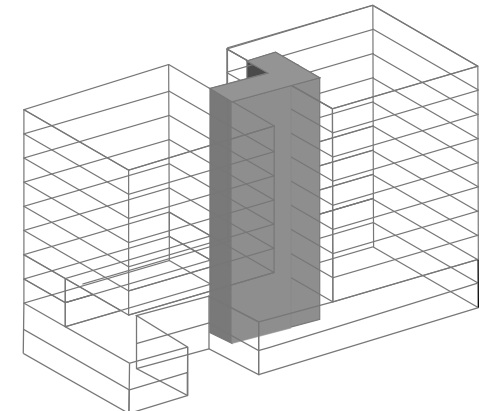

Different sharing typologies

Public and collective outdoor space

Residential space

Circulation

Ground floorplan Urban surrounding

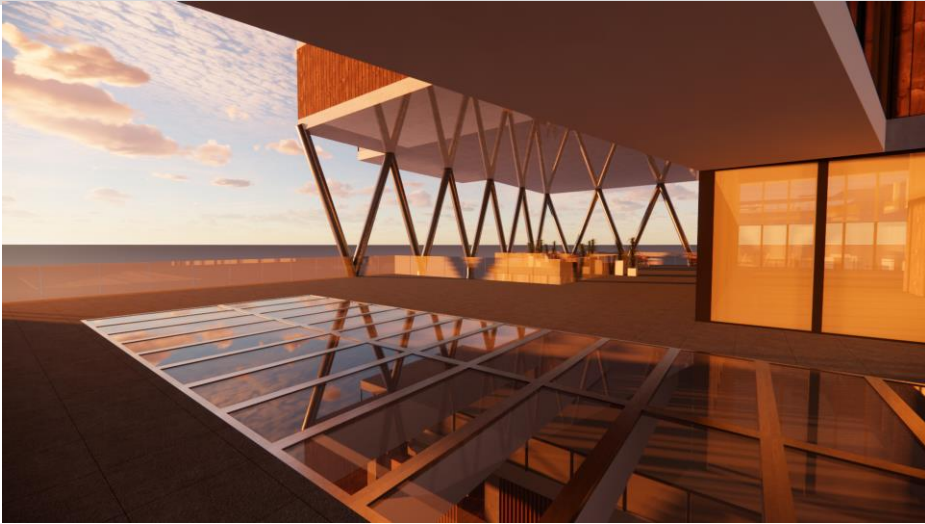

Public entrance to the café (north façade)

Entrance for residents (east façade)

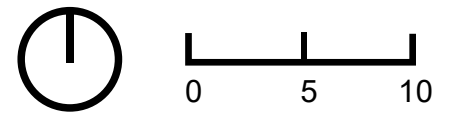

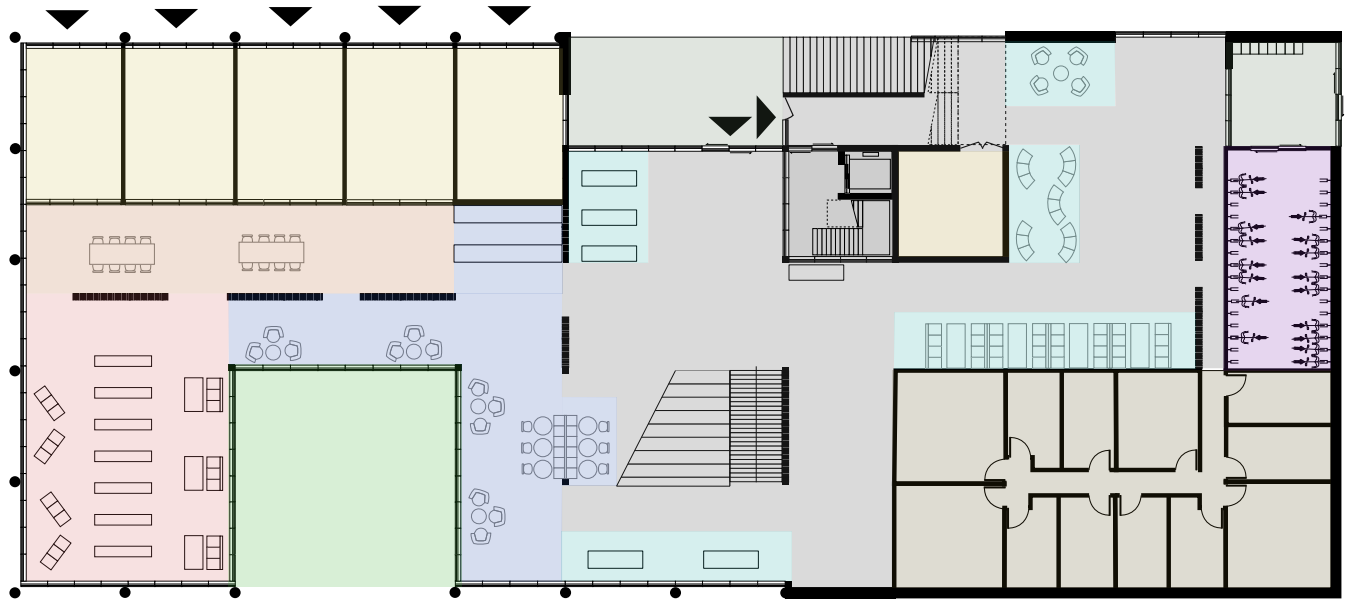

Floorplan public café/terrace (2. level)

Program of collective/public plinth

Ground floor

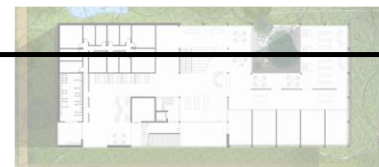

Atriumgarden Ground floor

Coffee corner Ground floor

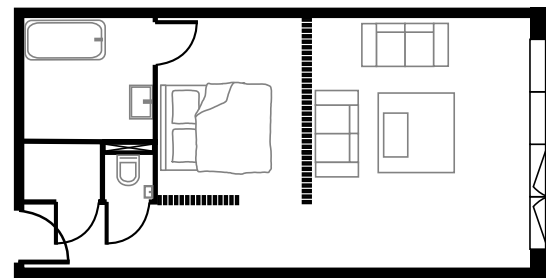

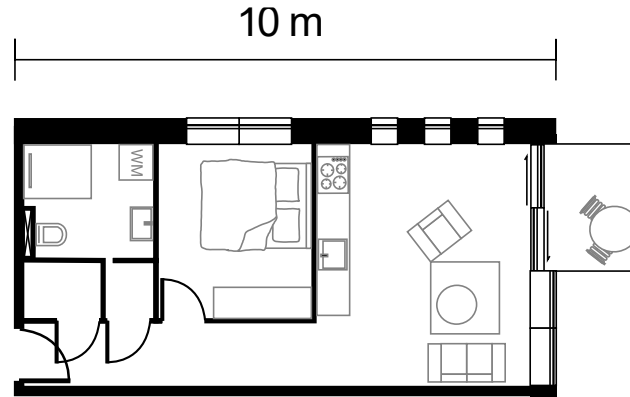

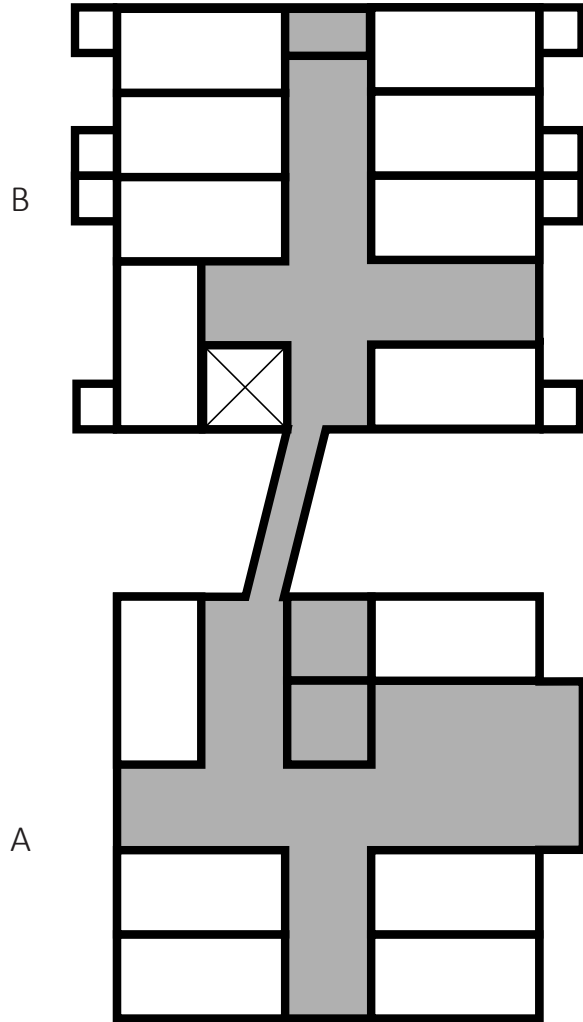

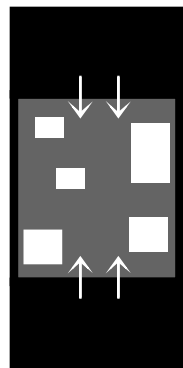

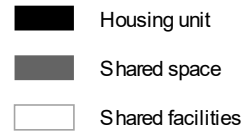

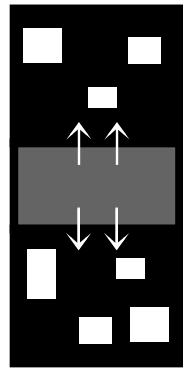

Section

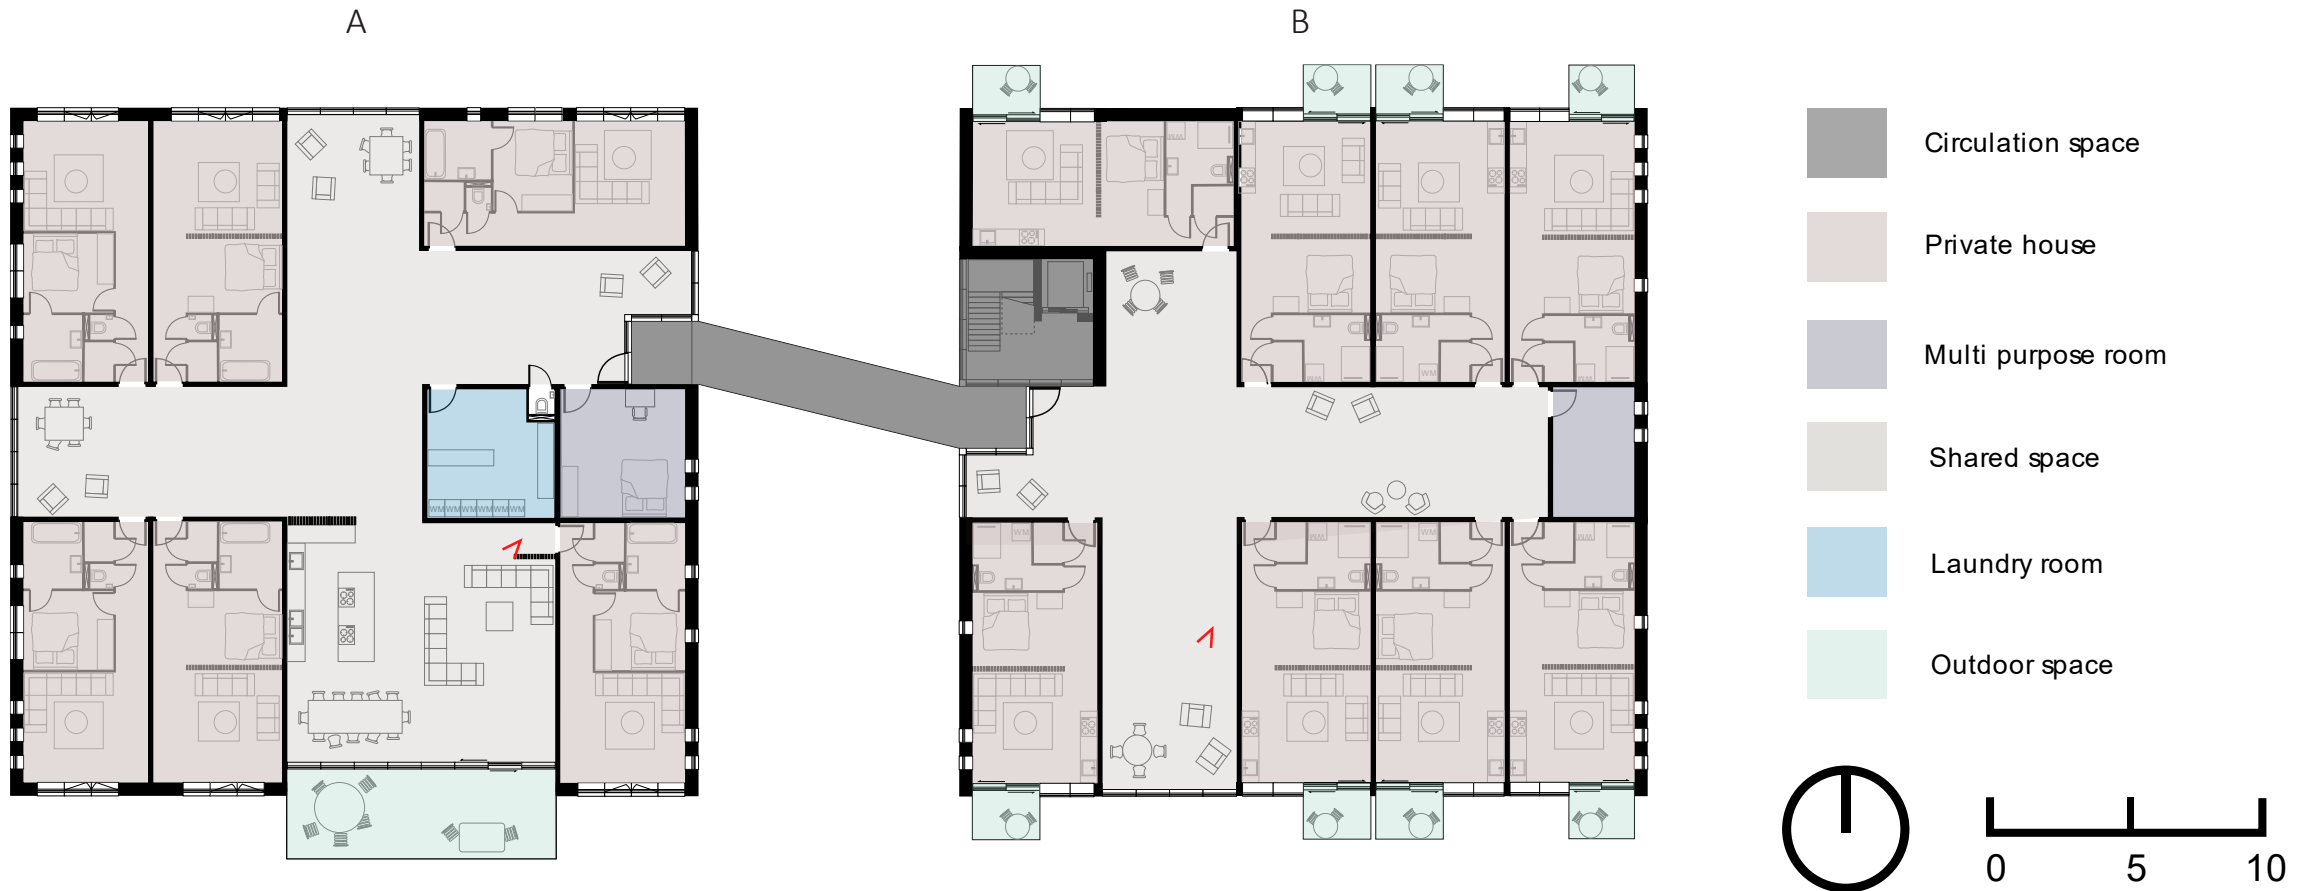

10. level	33000
9. level	30000
8. level	27000
7. level	24000
6. level	21000
5. level	18000
4. level	15000
3. level	12000
2. level	9000
1. level	4500
Ground floor	0

Program of housing and dwelling typology

Program of shared space in cluster housing A and B

6 private housing units per level
 35-45 m2
 Couples and solo's
 Less private facilities
 Collective outdoor space
 Large shared space and facilities

8 private housing units per level
 45 m2
 Couples and solo's
 Private facilities
 Private outdoor space
 Less shared space and facilities
 Linger space for interaction

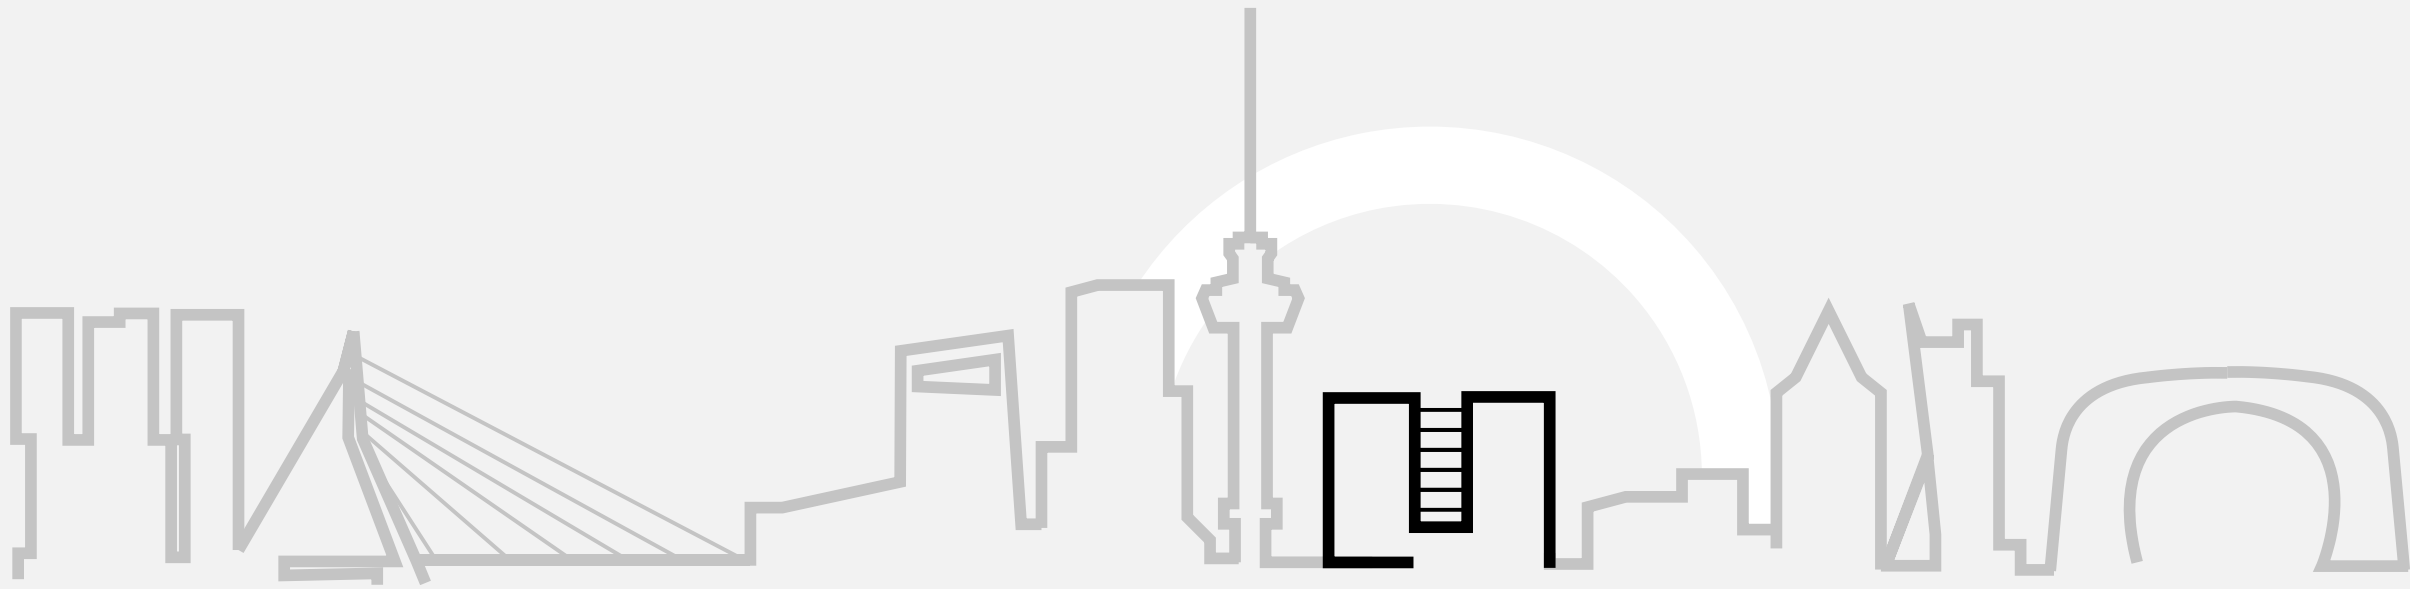

Shared space cluster housing A

Linger space cluster housing B

The introduction of the new housingform to make living affordable by sharing space