"Project acupuncture is less concerned with the small, the minute or the delicate than with the strategic, the systemic and the interdependent. Actions performed on the ear, the Chinese experts say, will have beneficial effects on the lung or the knee. Acupuncture is above all about a much higher appreciation of the epidermis as a rich, complex and enormously influential membrane."

Manuel de Solà-Morales
A Matter of Things

theoretical framework

"The general idea which fulfils this requirement is the concept of the Cluster. Cluster is a close knit, complicated, often moving aggregation, but aggregation with a distinct structure."

" It is traditionally the architect's job to create the signs or images which represent the functions and beliefs of the community, and to create them in such a way that they add up to a comprehensible whole. The Cluster concept provides us with a way of creating new images of the city"

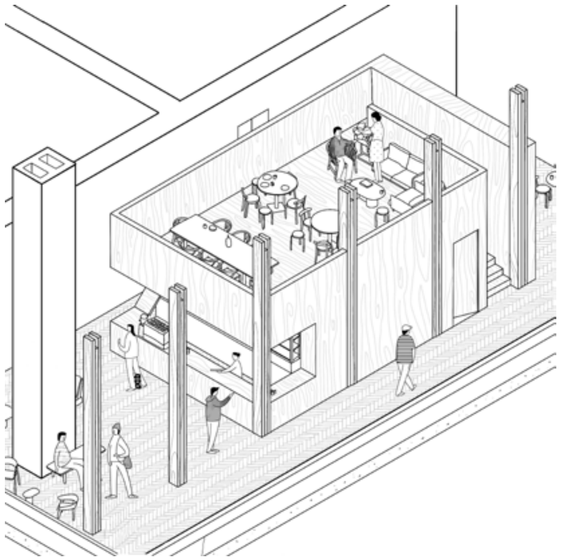
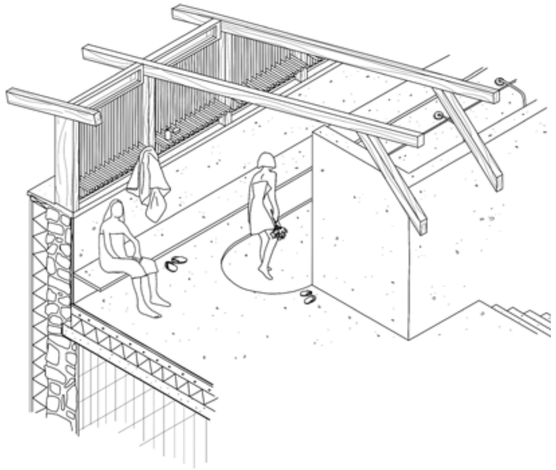
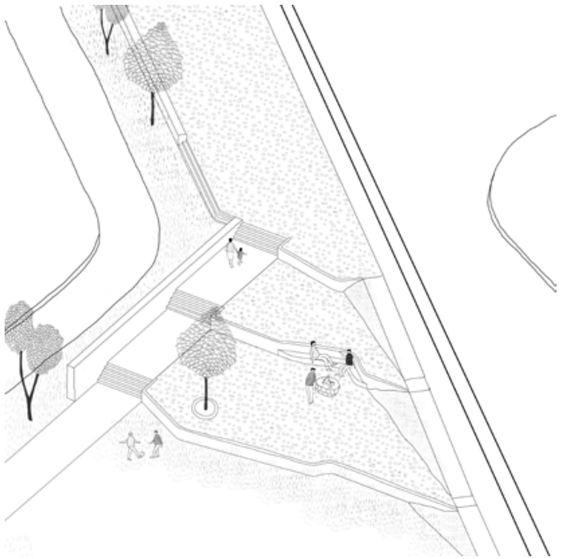
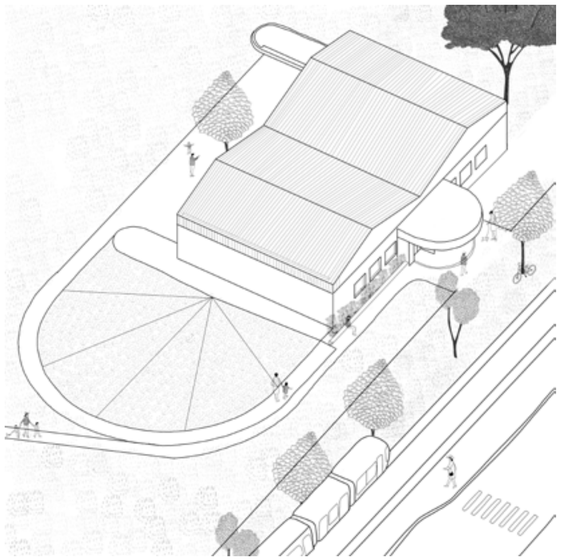
"The trust of a city street is formed over time from many little public sidewalk contacts. It grows out of people stopping by at the bar for a beer, getting advice from the grocer and giving advice to the newsstand man, comparing opinions with other customers at the bakery […]

The sum of such casual, public contact at a local level […] is a feeling for the public identity of people, a web of public respect and trust, and a resource in time of personal or neighborhood need."








Jane Jacobs
The Death and Life of Great American Cities
